

NEW COAL FIELDS BEING OPENED UP

Large Purchases of Land Near Pineville, Ky., and Mines Being Developed.

NEW CAPITAL IN OIL FIELDS

Much Prospecting Work Being Done by Pioneer Concerns. Building Will Be Brisk.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

BALTIMORE, January 18.—[Special correspondence from Pineville, Ky., in this week's issue of the Manufacturers' Record tells of a number of recent purchases of real estate involving the development of coal deposits in that region. Among them is the purchase at a price of $150,000 of 3,000 acres of coal land, which is to be reached by a railroad six miles long, to be built from Pineville, and the purchase of land and a partly developed mine four miles from Pineville at a cost of $75,000. One near-by coal company is building new houses for miners and adding to the already-equipped electric plant new motors and machinery, with a view to doubling the output this year. Another will equip its mines throughout with electricity, and will open two other mines in expectation of being able by September 1st to run 1,000 tons a day. The majority of mines in that region are equipped with the latest improved machinery for handling their output, and the county in which they lie is looking forward to the near time when it will lead in coal production in the State.

Some new capital has lately entered the various Kentucky oil fields, and about fifty rigs are now engaged in drilling, much of the prospective work being done by pioneer concerns. A pipeline for natural gas is planned for a twenty-mile stretch in Clay county and another oil refinery is being built at a company already operating one of the largest independent refineries in the country.

Contractors who do most of the building of residences at New Orleans are preparing for a resumption of the building operations that were interrupted in the fall by the financial conditions. During the past week there were issued permits for a number of houses ranging in cost from $1,500 to $4,100, and a large number of applications for permits were received during the week.

Parties at Dadeville, Ala., contemplate the establishment of a small plant for carding and spinning cotton into yarn and knitting the yarn into hose, while an Atlanta knitting mill is planned to establish another plant in Georgia at a cost of about $50,000. Mills at Wake Forest, N. C., have completed an addition three stories high which is being equipped with 5,000 spindles and 150 looms, at a cost of about $100,000, while at Birmingham, Ala., have completed the installation of new weaving machinery, and mills at Greenville, S. C., have also added to their equipment.
